

1530

Diet and Confession of Augsbury
Charles V crowned by Pope.
Ferdinand King of Romans.

Babar died; accession of Humayun
at Delhi

1530

Humayun (1508-1556)

Succeeded his father Babar as Mogul emperor of Delhi in 1530.
Though gallant and amiable, he had a certain weakness of character. ~~well~~

1530

At the Diet of Augsburg, when Charles presided in person, the Protestants produced the Augsburg confession of faith and made it clear that they would abide by it, and that coercion would mean civil war.

End 1530

Protestants formed the defensive league of Schmalkalde. Charles could not take that risk. He was master in Italy, but the Turks were advancing in Vienna and must be met. For a time there was a truce in Germany but it was an armed truce which might at any moment become war.
